Solar Eclipse

Our HES students have many stories to tell about their first viewing of a solar eclipse. Many exciting lessons in the classroom prepared our students for Monday's momentous event! Second grader Neela Megow made the Valdosta Daily Times as she viewed the eclipse at VSU.

Teacher Luncheon

The Howard Center sponsored a luncheon for HES staff on Friday. The luncheon, catered by Olive Garden was filled with wonderful giveaways including a t-shirt for every staff member and a drawing for a Michael Kors handbag. The lucky winner, Angela Kenny is shown below with her new bag!

Engaging Lessons

Second graders enjoy working together to solve math problems.

Third grade practices the distributive property of multiplication by "operating" on array as distributive doctors.

4th graders turned in and presented their Native American diorama projects!

Students in Discovery are working through a variety of STEM activities and using the engineering design process to exercise creative and critical thinking. While learning about buoyancy, a first grader is designing a boat that will hold the maximum amount of cargo while remaining afloat. Two third graders are using teamwork and collaboration to launch their Pom Pom Launcher.

Fundraiser Kickoff

Our fall fundraiser kickoff was on Friday. Students are excited to sell some wonderful products and collect Flying SuperHero Collectibles. Students have taken home a sales packet to share with parents and are busy planning their strategy to collect the many incentives offered. Items being sold provide something for everyone. Some of the types of items being sold include: Gourmet Delights, Home Essentials, Unique Boutique, Woodwick Candles, and Holiday Shoppe.

PBIS Update

On Monday morning, Mr. Wilkes and Mr. Allen hosted our HES bus drivers with a doughnut and coffee breakfast to discuss our positive behavior plans for the buses this coming year. Bus drivers received bee bucks to pass on to students for positive behavior. We appreciate our bus drivers and look forward to a great year as they safely transport our students to HES.

Winnersville Week

Students at HES had a wonderful time last week preparing for the Winnersville Classic. Friday was Viking Spirit Day and the following pictures show what a wonderful time the students had cheering on our Victorious Vikings! Friday was also
